

New Office Location

As you have heard, we will be moving to a new office located in the International Business Park in Jurong. For some, this move may not be as convenient as San Centre and for others; it may be very much welcomed. We apologise to those who may feel inconvenienced, but rest assured, this move is warranted and will assist us to reach our Vision.

It is fairly common for humans to resist change, so if you feel some inner resistance or uncomfortable about moving, go within and be willing to look at what is actually happening. Ask yourself, can I adapt to this change, knowing where there is change there is personal growth?

We will make the transition to Jurong as painless as possible for you and within a short time, we are sure you will feel at home in your new office surroundings.

We have some interesting ideas in the melting pot as to how we can connect more fully with each other as a team, so watch out for these developments coming soon.

Cause No Harm

Practical Application

Cause No Harm to Others

Just as we asked ourselves last month regarding our personal decisions, again, we must consider all aspects of our actions, including what we think and say – “will this cause harm to another or others?”

“Will I damage this person’s reputation by spreading a malicious rumour”?

“If I do not build this scaffold correctly, will it result in someone getting hurt”?

“If we make financial decisions in the board room, could we cause harm to our employees”?

“If I don’t clean up my spilt coffee, could someone slip over and hurt themselves”?

“Will my actions cause harm to others”?

We are moving beyond just looking out for ourselves, to caring for and being considerate towards others.

Think before you act!!

Next month we will give tips on causing no harm to the equipment we use, assets or materials.

Our Vision:

Together we establish a world class oil and gas service organisation by 2012
